Ex re Fabellas.—————— HOR.

OBIDAH, the Son of Abenſina, left the Caravanſera early in the Morning, and purſued his Journey through the Plains of Indoſtan. He was freſh and vigorous with Reſt; he was animated with Hope; he was incited by Deſire; he walked ſwiftly forward over the Vallies, and ſaw the Hills gradually riſing before him. As he paſſed along, his Ears were delighted with the Morning Song of the Bird of Paradiſe, he was fanned by the laſt Flutters of the ſinking Breeze, and ſprinkled with Dew by Groves of Spices; he ſometimes contemplated the towering Height of the Oak, Monarch of the Hills; and ſometimes caught the gentle Fragrance of the Primroſe, eldeſt Daughter of the Spring: All his Senſes were gratified, and all Care was baniſhed from his Heart.

Thus he went on 'til the Sun approached his Meridian, and the increaſſing Heat preyed upon his Strength; he then looked round about him for ſome more commodious Path. He ſaw on his right Hand, a Grove that ſeemed to wave its Shades, as a Sign of Invitation; he entered it, and found the Coolneſs and Verdure irreſiſtibly pleaſant. He did not, however, forget whither he was travelling, but found a narrow Way bordered with Flowers, which appeared to have the ſame Direction with the main Road, and he was pleaſed that by this happy Experiment, he had found Means to unite Pleaſure with his Buſineſs, and to gain the Rewards of Diligence without ſuffering its Fatigues. He therefore, ſtill continued to walk for a Time, without the leaſt Remiſſion of his Ardour, except that he was ſometimes tempted to ſtop by the Muſick of the Birds, whom the Heat had aſſembled in the Shade; and ſometimes amuſed himſelf with plucking the Flowers that grew on either Side, or the Fruits that hung upon the Branches. At laſt the green Path began to decline from its firſt Direction, and to wind among Hills and Thickets, cooled with Fountains, and murmuring with Water-falls. Here Obidah pauſed for a Time, and began to conſider whether it were longer ſafe to forſake the known and open Road, but remembering that the Heat was now in its greateſt Violence, and that the Plain was duſty and uneven, he reſolved to purſue the new Path, which he ſuppoſed only to make a few Meanders, in Compliance with the Varieties of the Ground, and to end at laſt in the common Road.

Having thus calmed his Solicitude, he renewed his Pace, though he ſuſpected that he was not gaining Ground. This Uneaſineſs of his Mind inclined him to lay hold on every new Object, and give Way to every Senſation that might ſooth or divert him. He liſtened to every Echo, he mounted every Hill for a freſh Proſpect, he turned aſide to every Caſcade, and pleaſed himſelf with tracing the Courſe of a gentle River that rolled among the Trees, and watered a large Region with innumerable Circumvolutions. In theſe Amuſements the Hours paſſed away uncounted, his Deviations had perplexed his Memory, and he knew not towards what Point to travel. He ſtood penſive and confuſed, afraid to go forward leſt he ſhould go wrong, yet conſcious that the Time of loitering was now paſt. While he was thus tortured with Uncertainty, the Sky was overſpread with Clouds, the Day vaniſhed from before him, and a ſudden Tempeſt gathered round his Head. He was now rouſed by his Danger to a quick and painful Remembrance of his Folly, he now ſaw how Happineſs is loſt when Eaſe is conſulted, and lamented the unmanly Impatience that prompted him to ſeek Shelter in the Grove, and deſpiſed the petty Curioſity that led him on from Trifle to Trifle. While he was thus reflecting, the Air grew blacker, and a Clap of Thunder broke his Meditation.

He now reſolved to do what remained yet in his Power, to tread back the Ground which he paſſed, and try to find ſome Iſſue where the Wood might open into the Plain. He proſtrated himſelf on the Ground, and commended his Life to the Lord of Nature. He roſe with Confidence and Tranquillity, and preſſed on with his Sabre in his Hand, for the Beaſts of the Deſart were in Motion, and on every Hand were heard the mingled Howls of Rage and Fear, and Ravage, and Expiration; all the Horrors of Darkneſs and Solitude ſurrounded him; the Winds roared in the Woods, and the Torrents tumbled from the Hills.

Thus forlorn and diſtreſſed, he wandered through the Wild, without knowing whither he was going, or whether he was every Moment drawing nearer to Safety or to Deſtruction. At length not Fear but Labour began to overcome him; his Breath grew ſhort, his Knees trembled, and he was on the Point of lying down in Reſignation to his Fate, when he beheld through the Brambles the Glimmer of a Taper. He advanced towards the Light, and finding that it proceeded from the Cottage of a Hermit, he called humbly at the Door, and obtained Admiſſion. The old Man ſet before him ſuch Proviſions as he had collected for himſelf, on which Obidah fed with Eagerneſs and Gratitude.

When the Repaſt was over, "Tell me, ſaid the Hermit, by what "Chance thou has been brought hither; I have been now twenty Years "an Inhabitant of the Wilderneſs, in which I never ſaw a Man before."

Obidah then related the Occurrences of his Journey, without any Concealment or Palliation.

"Son, ſaid the Hermit, let the Errors and Follies, the Dangers and "Eſcape of this Day, ſink down into thine Heart. Remember, my "Son, that human Life is the Journey of a Day. We riſe in the Morn-"ing of Youth, full of Vigour and full of Expectation; we ſet forward "with Spirit and Hope, with Gaiety and with Diligence, and travel on "a while in the ſtreight Road of Piety towards the Manſions of Reſt. "In a ſhort Time we remit our Fervour, and endeavour to find ſome "Mitigation of our Duty, and ſome more eaſy Means of obtaining the "ſame End. We then relax our Vigour, and reſolve no longer to be "terrified with Crimes at a Diſtance, but rely upon our own Conſtancy, "and venture to approach what we reſolve never to touch. We thus "enter the Bowers of Eaſe, and repoſe in the Shades of Security. Here "the Heart ſoftens, and Vigilance ſubſides; we are then willing to en-"quire whether another Advance cannot be made, and whether we may "not, at leaſt, turn our Eyes upon the Gardens of Pleaſure: We ap-"proach them with Scruple and Heſitation; we enter them, but enter "timorous and trembling, and always hope to paſs through them with-"out loſing the Road of Virtue, which we, for a while, keep in our "Sight, and to which we propoſe to return. But Temptation ſucceeds "Temptation, and one Compliance prepares us for another; we in Time "loſe the Happineſs of Innocence, and ſolace our Diſquiet with ſenſual "Gratifications. By Degrees we let fall the Remembrance of our ori-"ginal Intention, and quit the only adequate Object of rational Deſire. "We entangle ourſelves in Buſineſs, immerge ourſelves in Luxury, and "rove through the Labyrinths of Inconſtancy, 'til the Darkneſs of old "Age begins to invade us, and Diſeaſe and Anxiety obſtruct our Way. "We then look back upon our Lives with Horror, with Sorrow, with "Repentance; and wiſh, but too often vainly wiſh, that we had not for-"ſaken the Ways of Virtue. Happy are they, my Son, who ſhall learn "from thy Example not to deſpair, but ſhall remember, that though "the Day is paſt, and their Strength is waſted, there yet remains one "Effort to be made; that Reformation is never hopeleſs, nor ſincere En-"deavours ever unaſſiſted, but the Wanderer may at length return after "all his Errors; and he who implores Strength and Courage from above, "ſhall find Danger and Difficulty give Way before him. Go now, my "Son, to thy Repoſe, commit thyſelf to the Care of Omnipotence, and "when the Morning calls again to Toil, begin anew thy Journey and "thy Life."

Of the Beauty and Uſefulneſs of the AURORA.

——aſcending from the Shades of Night,
Aurora glow'd in all her roſy Light,
The Daughter of the Dawn——

TICKLE's HOMER.

POETS, who know no better Method of pleaſing, than by lively Pictures of Things, have given us the pleaſanteſt Deſcriptions of Aurora. They make her the Daughter of the Air, and ſtile her the Forerunner of the Day. In this Quality ſhe is charged with the Cuſtody of the Gates in the Eaſt, and it is ſhe who, at the appointed Time, comes to open them with her roſy Fingers. She ſends before her the Zephyrs, to ſcatter gloomy Vapours, and purify the thickened Air. Wherever ſhe appears, ſhe enlivens the Verdure, makes Flowers grow under her Steps, and ſpreads Beauty and Joy over the Univerſe.

Theſe poetical Fancies have ſomething in them very agreeable, but the fabulous Strokes, with which Truth is blended therein, are nothing but a Paint, that disfigures it and impairs its Beauty. Let us then leave the Poetical and conſider the Natural Aurora. This, indeed, is ſo majeſtical and ſo bright, that is wants no borrowed Help, or Decorations, to be infinitely pleaſing.

The Aurora, with Regard to us, is a Creation entirely new, and every whit as noble and free a Gift as the firſt Creation. It is wholly new, ſince the Aurora cauſes Heaven and Earth to riſe out of that profound Darkneſs, which took from us the Sight and Uſe of them, as if they were no more. It may even be ſaid, without derogating from the exacteſt Truth, that the Birth of Light is more magnificent at preſent, than it was at the firſt Moment of it's Creation. There were then no Spectators, nor any Objects to be enlightened. The Earth, it is true, was already made: God had formed the ſeveral Parts of Matter, he had with Œconomy ſpread the various Strata, and prepared all the Organs thereof: But the Animals, the Plants and the Works wherewith it was to be covered and adorned, were not as yet upon it. They appeared thereon but ſucceſſively, and within the Compaſs of ſeveral Days, as God was pleaſed to regulate their Being, and aſſign them their reſpective Places. The Waters of the Atmoſphere had not yet been raiſed on high, nor thoſe of the Sea collected and confined within the lower Places wherein they now ſojourn. Theſe Waters covered the whole Earth. In ſhort, it was as yet without either Order or Beauty. But now when the Dawning of the Day ſcatters the Darkneſs, it opens to our Sight an Earth ſtrewed with Bleſſings, and and embelliſhed, for our Sakes, with the moſt coſtly Attire. It unveils every Thing to our Eyes; it ſhews us the Mountains, with the waving Woods, with which they are crowned: It offers to our View the leſſer Hills, with the Vines that are like Tapeſtry upon them; the Fields, with the Crops that cover them: It draws the Curtain from over whole Cities, and Towns; It brings out of Darkneſs the Domes and Pyramids of Temples, the magnificent Caſtles of the Great, and the Abodes of the People diſperſed all over the Plain.

To this Favour of renewing the World, the Aurora adds another. It gives new Life to Man himſelf, in raiſing him from Sleep, which is the Image of Death. The Morning reſtores him to the Uſe of his Underſtanding, of which Sleep had entirely robbed him. It warns him of the Time when he is to Return to his Work. The Birds are in the Fields before him, and fill the Air with a Thouſand pleaſing Notes.

But let us not be ſo entirely taken up with the Good and Favours done to us, as to forget to beſtow a great Part of our Attention on the Delight that heightens them. I ſee the whole Circle of the Horizon gradually inflamed with the brighteſt Red. The Clouds every where contract various and lively Colours; the Edges of the thickeſt become Fringes brighter than Silver; the thin Vapours that croſs the Eaſt, are become like Gold. The Green of the Plants, attenuated with the Drops of Dew which cover them, gives them the Clearneſs, and all the Luſtre of Pearls.

NAPLES, May 22, O. S.

THE laſt Letters from Calabria adviſe, that the Corſairs of Barbary have, within the Space of eight or ten Days, taken nine Merchant Ships, ſix of which belonged to this City, two to the Republick of Genoa, and one to that of Venice; but that the Crew had the good Fortune to make their Eſcape by getting on Shore. Upon this News, Orders have been given to ſend our Galleys and Galliots to Sea without Delay, in Order to drive away theſe Pirates, whoſe Squadron conſiſts only of five Xebecks, and one Algerine Man of War.

Turin, May 27, O. S. It's pretended that poſitive News has been received here both from Spain and Rome, that every Thing is regulated between the Courts in Reſpect to the Abdication of the Cardinal Infant from his Eccleſiaſtical Preferments; and that the conſiderable Benifites which that Prince enjoys, will be held in Commendam; beſides which, a Civil Eſtabliſhment will be formed for him; and that he will marry into a Houſe allied to Spain.

Amſterdam, May 8. The Attention of the Publick is at preſent chiefly employed upon the Queſtion, Whether this Republick will accede to the Treaty of St. Peterſbourg, or not? It every Day, more than ever, appears how deſirous the King of Great Britain is of bringing this Affair about; and for that Reaſon People here are of Opinion, that the Parties of that Treaty will want the Aid of the Republick in other Points beſides thoſe with which they are at preſent made acquainted, and therefore think that great Caution will be uſed in reſolving how to act thererein, in Order to prevent the fatal Conſequences that may reſult from a too haſty Determination thereupon.

Advices from the Low Countries continue to intimate that the French are as faſt as poſſible filling their Magazines upon the Frontiers, and augmenting the Garriſons of the fortified Towns there, which gives the Brabanters great Uneaſineſs, and makes them apprehend another Viſit from the French, whom they now hate, as much as their Ignorance made them love that People heretofore.

Liſbon, May 14, O. S. Notwithſtanding the Government's Orders againſt fixing up Horns over the Doors and Windows of Houſes, ſome were found a few Days ſince in divers Parts of the Town. The 20th Inſtant in the Night the Patrol ſtopt near the Palace Royal a certain Perſon, behind whom another Man walked, who immediately took to his Heels and in his Fright dropt a Baſket full of Horns, with which they undoubtedly deſigned to decorate ſome Houſes. It has ſince been diſcovered that the Perſon ſeized by the Patrol is a Gentleman, who uſed to ramble about the Streets in the Night Time, followed by his Servant, who fixed the Horns at ſuch Houſes as he directed. We doubt not but this Gentleman will pay dearly for this miſchievous Diverſion; and there ſeems to be the greater Neceſſity for making an Example of him, as this malicious Humour has already ſpread to other Towns in the Kingdom.

Warſaw, May 30. The Turks continue to make divers Movements on the Side of the Ukrain, but we cannot yet believe they deſign to proceed to a Rupture with Ruſſia; it is rather probable that they intend only to exerciſe their Troops, who require to be put in Motion, to prevent their committing Diſorders in their Quarters, which too frequently happens. Nevertheleſs, there is too much Reaſon to fear that this Stratagem will not prove ſucceſsful; for the Janiſſaries expect nothing leſs than that a War will follow the preſent Military Diſpoſitions; and if they find themſelves deceived, they may poſſibly go to Work their own Way, either proceed without Orders to downright Hoſtilities againſt ſome Neighbouring Power, or elſe bring about a Revolution at Home. At preſent they are quiet enough in the Budziack and Crim Tartary; but it is plain that their Preparations have encouraged the Haydamacks to ravage again the Frontiers of Poland.

Copenhagen, June 1, O. S. We are informed that ſome Overtures have been made for a Marriage between the Prince of Wales, Grandſon of his Britannick Majeſty, and Heir apparent to his Crown, and the Princeſs Wilhelmina Carolina, Second Daughter of their Daniſh Majeſties, born July 10, 1747.

LONDON,

April 22. Friday Morning, about Eleven o'Clock, a Girl of eleven Years of Age, came running out of a Houſe in Turnmill-ſtreet, with only her Shift on, ſcreaming and raving violently, and then ſuddenly fell down into a convulſive Fit; ſome of the Neighbours took the Child up, and imagined that the Mother had beat her, and by that Means occaſioned her Screaming: But how great was their Miſtake, and how ſhocking the Proſpect before them! In a Garret, lay the Mother dead, the Father by her, with three other Children beſides this Girl, all ſick of a violent Fever in the ſame Bed, without Support or Aſſiſtance of any Kind. It ſeems the Mother was firſt taken ill, and communicated the Diſtemper to her Huſband and the Children, by being ſo cloſely pent up together; and not one of them was able to ſtir out to inform the Neighbours of their Calamity, till the Girl abovementioned ran out in a Delirium. The Pariſh Officers were immediately applied to, they ſent to a Relation of the poor Wretches, who ordered a Coffin for the Woman, and a Phyſician, with other neceſſary Relief to the reſt of the Family. The Man is an induſtrious Labourer, and has now ſeven Children, three at Service, and the other four in the ſame calamitous Circumſtances with himſelf.

May 18. We hear a Subſcription has been lately ſet on Foot for erecting a new Temple to the great Goddeſs FORTUNE, at one of thoſe Places where ſhe is devoutly worſhipp'd twice a Year; in Order to make ſome Diſtinction between her Votaries, and prevent their being dragg'd, againſt their Wills, into either Hall or Horſepond.

Some private Letters from Madrid mention a ſingular but annonymous Memorial, which has reach'd the Hands of his Majeſty; tending to ſhew, that if the Governors in the Weſt-Indies will but hold faſt their Integrity, it muſt put an End to illicit Trade; and that a few proper Examples would be the beſt Guarda Coſtas.

May 21. Among other Regulations, that ſeem at this Juncture to be both expedient and neceſſary, one is, the charging a moderate Tax on Publick Diverſions, towards the Support of uſeful Charities, and if it could be ſo far extended towards the Relief of the POOR; which might be done by ſtamping the Tickets, and bringing the Produce to a ſeparate Account. For as Families become daily indigent through Diſſipation and Extravagance; ſo this would either give a Check to the Humour, or correct the Miſchief it occaſions, by raiſing a Fund for alleviating the Miſery of thoſe that an idle Bent to Pleaſure in ſuch as ſhould have provided for them, throws into the deepeſt Diſtreſs.

Some Regulations it is thought will be made, in the Proceedings to conteſt, and to eſtabliſh Wills; that Points of that Nature may be more ſpeedily determined, and with leſs Expence; ſo that there may be no Temptation to inſtitute or to defend any Suits, upon collateral Conſiderations, of what may happen before it is decided independent of the real Merits of the Cauſe.

May 22. Laſt Week Thomas Bromwhich, Eſq; of Inning in Suffolk, preſented the Rev. Mr. Hunt, who had been ſeveral Years Curate of the Pariſh, and had behaved to the general Satisfaction of the Pariſhoners, to that Living, worth 230 l. a Year, of which he only received 30 l. a Year for his Care, notwithſtanding he had a Wife and three Children; a laudable Example, and worthy the Imitation of all Patrons of Livings.

Laſt Thurſday the following Cheat was practiſed upon a Maid Servant of an eminent Linen Draper, in Leadenhall-ſtreet, at his Country Houſe at Edmonton; a Woman came to the Door to offer Matches to Sale, and in Converſe with the Maid told her ſhe was born to good Fortune, which ſhe could plainly perceive by the Lines of her Face and Hands; at the ſame Time acquainting her, that if ſhe would lay ſix, eight or twelve large Silver Spoons, the more the better, wrapp'd in a Linen Cloth, at ſuch a Corner of the Cellar, and ſay a few Words over them which ſhe would teach her, ſhe might be certain of finding a large Bag of Money the next Morning; which the credulous Maid believing, fetch'd eight Table Spoons, three Tea-Spoons, and a Pepper Box, and followed the Fortune Tellers Directions punctually; but the old Bite found means to convey the Parcel away and Place another in its Room; and the next Morning the poor Wench going to look for the Bag of Money, found herſelf diſappointed of her Riches, and Pewter Spoons inſtead of Silver.

June 5. We hear that a Cauſe was laſt Saturday determin'd in the Court of Exchequer, wherein a poor Sailor was Plaintiff, concerning a Bill of Sale of the Plaintiff's Share in the rich Prizes at Kinſale in Ireland, and afterwards confirmed by ſome other Writings made here; both were ſet aſide, and the Purchaſers decreed to be allowed no more than the real Money advanced, with Intereſt, and to pay the Sailor his Coſts. And we alſo hear, there is an Application for an Act of Parliament, to enforce theſe Decrees againſt ſuch Purchaſers as live in Ireland.

On Sunday laſt a certain Perſon well known about the Pariſh of St. James's, Weſtminſter, was brought to the Bar of the King's Bench in Weſtminſter Hall, on an Indictment againſt him, for ſending Challenges to two Members of Parliament, for expoſing him to a certain Lady of Quality, to whom he had the Preſumption to pay his Addreſſes; to which he pleaded guilty, and was by the Court committed to the Priſon of the ſaid Court. This Man, it is ſaid, was a Brewer's Servant in Dublin, and there enliſted himſelf into a Regiment on that Eſtabliſhment, out of which he was drummed for ſome Crimes he had committed. He for ſome Time made a very extraordinary Figure here, going to all Places where People of Diſtinction reſort; and about two Months ſince publiſhed a remarkable Proof of his Gentility in one of the publick Papers, calculated, without Doubt, the more eaſily to impoſe on ſome fair one; but his Schemes, it is imagined, will now be marred or put a Stop to for ſome conſiderable Time.

June 8. Thurſday the Hon. Eaſt-India Company came to a Reſolution to take into their Service for this Year, fourteen Ships, and have contracted for upwards of 150,000 l. worth of Engliſh Woollen Manufactory, to be exported to the Eaſt-Indies, their Charter only obliging them to export 60,000 l. of thoſe Goods.

Kenſington, June 18. The King has been pleaſed this Day to appoint the Honourable the Earl of Holderneſs, to be one of his Majeſty's principal Secretaries of State, in the Room of his Grace the Duke of Bedford, who has reſign'd.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, June 17, 1751. Orders for the Change of the Mourning for his Royal Highneſs the Prince of Wales, on Sunday next the 23d Inſtant, viz.

The Men to wear Black full trimmed, plain or fringed Linen, black Swords and Buckles.

Undreſs, grey Frocks.

The Ladies to wear black Silk, fringed or plain Linen, white Gloves, black and white Shoes, Fans and Tippets, white Necklaces, and Ear Rings, no Diamonds.

June 25. This Day his Majeſty went to the Houſe of Peers, and gave the Royal Aſſent to ſeveral Bills, and among the Reſt the following, viz.

An Act for granting to his Majeſty the Sum of 600,000 l. out of the Sinking Fund, for the Service of the Year 1751.

An Act for the encouraging the making Pot-Aſhes in the Britiſh Plantations.

An Act to regulate and reſtrain Paper Bills of Credit in his Majeſty's Colonies in America; and to prevent the ſame being legal Tenders in Payment of Money.

After which his Majeſty put an End to the Seſſion of Parliament with a moſt gracious Speech from the Throne.

His

His Majesty's Most Gracious Speech to both Houses of Parliament, at the Close of the Session, June 25, 1751.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

THE advanced Season of the Year makes it necessary for me to put an End to this Session of Parliament; and I do it with the greater Satisfaction, as your diligent Application to the public Business has brought it to so happy a Conclusion. On this Occasion I cannot but return you my hearty Thanks for the many Proofs you have given me, of your Zeal and Affection for me and my Government, and the Care and Attention which you have exerted for the Interests of my People.

As Europe now enjoys a happy Tranquility, very little Alteration has been made in the State of Foreign Affairs since your Meeting. My Resolution to preserve the general Peace is the same; and I have the greatest Reason to rely on the like good Disposition in the Powers in Alliance with me, not only being continued, but confirmed and improved.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

The Readiness with which you have granted me the Supplies for the Service of the current Year, demands my particular Acknowledgments; and the Prudence and Firmness you have shewn in compleating the Reduction of the Interest of the national Debt, is as agreeable to me, as that Measure is essential to the Strength and Welfare of my Kingdom.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I have nothing to desire of you, but effectually to consult your own true Happiness and Interest. Let it be your Care to maintain, in your several Counties, the public Peace and good Order; to encourage and promote a just Reverence for Government and Law; and not to suffer those good Laws, which are enacted here, to lose their Effect, for want of a due Execution."

After this the Parliament was prorogued to August 13.

June 27. The late Session of Parliament expiring on Tuesday, the Hon. Mr. Murray, who had been confined close Prisoner a considerable Time in Newgate, by Virtue of an Order of the House of Commons, for a Contempt of that Honourable House, was discharged from his Confinement; and being accompanied in a Coach by the Right Hon. the Lord Carpenter, and Sir George Vandeput, the Sheriffs of London in a Chariot, and some other Gentlemen in Coaches, went in Procession from that Goal to his Brother's the Right Hon. the Lord Ehbank, in Henrietta Street, near Oxford Chapel, preceded by the Music from several Markets, a very great Mob huzzaing, and bearing a Standard before his Coach, with this Inscription, MURRAY and LIBERTY.

July 4. The Polly, Crawford, from Virginia, is arrived at Cadiz, laden with the Money and Effects saved out of the Spanish Register Ships lost some Time on the Coast of Virginia. She was boarded by two Algerine Men of War, who taking her to be laden with English Property, let her go. There were sixteen Spaniards on Board, whom Capt. Crawford had concealed.

July 11. This Morning at 6 a Clock her Royal Highness the Princess of Wales was brought to Bed of a Princess at Leicester House; on which Occasion the Guns at the Park and the Tower were fir'd; and her Royal Highness and the young Princess are both like to do well,

We hear that the French Court, and that of Spain, have express'd great Uneasiness at the Departure of the Squadron under Commodore Rodney, suspecting that they are design'd to find out some new Settlement in the South-Seas; also that the Portuguese and Danes are very much alarm'd at this Undertaking.

The following is his Majesty's most gracious Letter to the General Assembly now sitting.

GEORGE R.

RIGHT Reverend and Well beloved, we greet you well. The Zeal with which you have, upon all Occasions so stedfastly exerted yourselves, as well in Support of the Protestant Succession, as in the Advancement of true Religion and Piety, and the Affection you have so constantly expressed for our Person and Government, induce us most readily to countenance this your Meeting with our Royal Approbation and Authority. As we have the firmest Dependence upon your employing your utmost Endeavours for the inculcating and encouraging of Virtue in the best and most effectual Manner, so you may be assured of our Resolution to preserve and protect the Rights and Privileges of the Church of Scotland, as by Law established.

The repeated Instances we have received of the Loyalty, Prudence, Fidelity and good Conduct of our trusty and entirely beloved Cousin Alexander Earl of Leven, and of his Capacity and Ability for the discharging so important a Trust, have engaged us to fix on him to represent our Person again upon this Occasion; and we doubt not, from the Experience you have had of his Attachment to us and our Government, and of his Zeal for the Church of Scotland, but that this our Choice will be very acceptable to you.

As the View of your present assembling is to promote Religion and Piety, so we rely upon your not allowing any Steps to be taken (as far as depends on you) but such as may tend to produce that desirable Effect. And so we bid you heartily Farewell.

Given at our Court at St. James's, the 12th Day of April 1751. in the 24th Year of our Reign.

By His Majesty's Command,

HOLLES NEWCASTLE.

NEW-YORK, September 9.

We have Advice from Halifax in Nova-Scotia, that there is such a Number of New-Yorkers got to that Place, since the first Settlement of it, as will nearly fill one of the largest Streets in the Town, and that they are about to form themselves in one Street, into a Society or Company, by the Name of the Free New-York Company at Nova-Scotia; and that all that shall hereafter come as one of King David's Soldiers, (See 1 Sam. xxii. Chap. 2 Ver.) Shall be permitted to join them, and draw Shares according to the Stock they bring:----Some of those Gentlemen have wrote to their Friends here, that for their Encouragement to send Merchandize to them, they will engage that whatever thay send, they will make it all Sterling.

WILLIAMSBURG, October 11.

The following Prisoners are now in the Public Goal here; their Trials will come on before the General Court on Wednesday next.

TO be SOLD, at the Swan Tavern, in York Town, a neat Chariot and Harneſs, by

t. f. James Mitchell.

Mr. HUNTER,

AS I am about an Abridgment of the new Laws, the Copy of which will be complete by the General Court; I have been prevailed on to print it, if I have a Proſpect of ſaving myſelf, though the Treatment I met from the Subſcribers to the laſt, had determined me never to be again concerned in an Undertaking of the like Kind: You muſt be ſenſible that near 1200 of that Edition were left upon my Hands by the Subſcribers, after they were not only printed but bound, ſo that beſides fifteen Years Intereſt of 400 and odd Pounds which that Edition coſt me, I have not only loſt all my own Labour but am above 30 Pounds out of Pocket, I therefore propoſe,

That the Abridgment ſhall be printed on as good a Paper, and with as good a Letter as the laſt, and be well bound in Calf, and lettered on the Back.

That every Act of Aſſembly ſhall be abridged under its proper Head; but where any Act contains different Matters, ſuch Part or Parts of it, as relate to every diſtinct Matter ſhall be abridged under ſeveral and diſtinct Heads.

That there ſhall be annexed Tables of the Powers and Authorities given to, and the Injunctions laid on every County Court, Juſtice of the Peace, and every Officer whatſoever in this Colony, with the Penalties inflicted on every Breach of Duty.

That proper Tables ſhall be added to render the Whole complete.

Every Subſcriber to pay a Piece of Eight upon ſubſcribing, for which a Receipt will be given, and a Note to deliver a Book on the Payment of Five Shillings more.

As ſoon as 400 Perſons ſubſcribe, the Copy ſhall be ſent to the Preſs, in which Caſe I make no Doubt but the Books will be ready to be delivered to the Subſcribers next Summer.

As the Diſappointment I have already met with, will be a ſufficient Caution to me not to print a greater Number than are ſubſcribed for: All Perſons willing to ſubſcribe are deſired to ſend their Names, and Places of Abode, to the next General Court; where conſtant Attendance will be given, at my Lodgings, to deliver out Receipts: They may likewiſe be had of Mr. Charles Dick, at Frederickſburg.

When the Books are ready to be delivered to the Subſcribers Notice will be given of it in the Virginia Gazette, and continued for ſome Time, and the Books may be had at my Houſe; but if any of the Subſcribers fail to produce their Receipts, and demand their Books fifteen Months after Publication of ſuch Notice, what Books are then left will be diſpoſed of to any Perſon that will purchaſe them, and the Subſcribers will loſe their Subſcription Money.

I purpoſe, as long as live, to abridge the Laws of every ſucceeding Seſſion, as a Continuation, which ſhall be ſold at the loweſt Price it can be afforded, in which will be particularly noted every Act and Clauſe that is from Time to Time altered or repealed, and all new Powers and Authorities given to, or Injunctions laid on Courts or Officers.

John Mercer. 10
